The Bachelor of Arts in Accounting degree builds on a liberal arts and business education foundation and provides graduates with accounting knowledge and skills. Theory and application are integrated into the courses to develop the ability to think critically, exercise judgment, make decisions, and communicate effectively in a complex and rapidly changing business environment.

Beyond the Classroom

Completion of the accounting major qualifies the student to sit for the North Carolina CPA examination. Requirements to sit for the CPA exam in other states vary by state. Students should consult with the State Board of CPA Examiners in the state in which they desire to practice. North Carolina now requires 150 hours of coursework to be licensed as a CPA.
