Program Summary

The goal of the Educational Studies program is to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to be successful organizers, communicators, and community builders and leaders. Educational Studies majors have many options upon completion of their degrees. Many Educational Studies program completers attend graduate school to further specialize in a field of their choice. Please note that an Educational Studies degree does not include state teacher licensure. Following completion of the degree, initial teacher licensure may be obtained through, among other avenues, a Master of Arts in Teaching program.

Beyond the Classroom

Education-related employment opportunities may be found in many places, including, but not limited to, museums, daycare centers, after-school programs, private school settings not requiring teacher licensure, and advancement in most positions where a four-year college degree is considered advantageous.
